Open in IE | chrome-extension://loohpideggedchpphemdmpnmdkgfd/data/helper/index.html

One last step

For the extension to work there is one extra step. Please download, unzip and install the native client.

- Click here to download the package for your OS or click here to browse all available download options.
- Extract the downloaded package in a local directory
- Now double-click the `install.bat` file

Check Connection

The installer script copies a few files to two different locations for your browser to be able to detect this native client. If you already have NodeJS in your system, the installed version of NodeJS will be used. So please make sure you have an up-to-date version of NodeJS installed. If you don't have this application, the portable version will be used. Read more here.

To completely remove this native client, run `uninstall.bat`.

To make sure the native client is accessible, click on the "Check Connection" button. If you still get this page even when the "Check Button" reports successful connection, it means the application cannot be accessed (path is not correct in the options page). If the path to the executable is correct and the native client is connected, you can debug the connection by enabling console logs.
